Frankfort Ready To Hit Peddlers With New Laws

An ordinance to establish controls over solicitors, canvassers and peddlers is under consideration by the Frankfort village board. The board also is planning to collect sales tax from those people who deliver foodstuffs, including milk, and other merchandise from door to door. A canteen service also will be affected by such measures.

Mayor George Sangmeister, who with four members of the board attended the Illinois Municipal League convention at Springfield last week, reported that many villages and cities in Illinois are now collecting sales tax on goods sold within their limits, regardless of whether from a store, a truck or a suitcase, they learned at the conference.

The ordinance for licensing canvassers and peddlers is a lengthy one. It was drafted by Village Attorney A. H. Krusemark and copies were distributed among board members last week. The board is now considering the question of fees. The licensing committee is scheduled to report on this with a recommendation at the next regular meeting, Oct. 17.

In addition to a license fee the applicant would also pay an application fee. This would reimburse the village for the time and effort required in checking the information, taking and checking fingerprints, and other details. These door-to-door salesmen will also have to furnish references, photographs, post bonds and show their licenses on demands.

License fees would vary considerably, it was said, because some permits might be for a day, others for a week or a month, while some would cover a year's period.

Applications would be made with Village Clerk Walter Pfaff but Chief of Police Francis Simon would check the information and either approve or reject the request. Applicants also would have to be in good health and free of communicable diseases.

The collection of sales tax from peddlers is something rather new, it was said, but the Frankfort officials found out at Springfield that such collections are valid and the practice has been adopted by many municipalities.

The practice of dairymen or food purveyors charging a customer sales tax is as old as the sales tax law, it was pointed out, but in most instances the tax turned in by the salesmen to the company is counted as part of the sales tax collected in the headquarters community. Under the new system, which Frankfort is believed ready to adopt, the sales taxes paid by Frankfort people on goods sold in Frankfort would go to that village.

For instance, a Joliet dairy with a route in Frankfort, would have to keep a separate tally on the products sold within the corporate limits of the village and pay the sales tax there instead of lumping it with the total business so Joliet would benefit rather than Frankfort.

The licensing of door-to-door salesmen is not intended as a revenue producing measure, it was pointed out, but rather one which would give village authorities legal means for making Frankfort off-limits to undesirables.

IN SERIOUS CONDITION

James McGinnigal, 52, of Blue Island, who was injured in an auto crash at 159th and Wolf road Sept. 29, is still in serious condition at St. Francis hospital, Blue Island. McGinnigal's car was caught between two trucks and squeezed like an accordion. Rescuers worked for 45 minutes before the victim could be extricated from the wreck.

Five Students At L-W Win Letters Of Commendation

Five seniors at Lincoln-Way high school have been honored for outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMQST) given last spring. Each student who is endorsed by his school receives a formal letter of commendation signed by his principal and the president of the National Merit Scholarship Corp.

A. Hunter Chapman, the school's principal, has announced that the commended students are;

Frankfort Board Sets Deadline To Connect Sewers

Frankfort property owners have until Dec. 1, to connect their house service lines with the sewer mains, providing, of course, the stubs are available so connections can be made.

Such action was decreed by the village board at its regular meeting last week. In making this announcement the board was prompted by the fact that an erroneous belief has spread about the community to the effect that it was not necessary to make connection with the sewer for a year.

The trustees are at a loss as to how such a story was originated. Last fall the village board enacted an ordinance outlawing septic tanks after Nov. 9, 1960, if sewer connections were available as of that date.

At the meeting last week the board took into consideration that not all lots have stubs and also that there must be some lag between placing an order with a contractor for the connection and getting the job completed. With these thoughts in mind the board last week extended the time for making sewer connections from

Nov. 9 to Dec. 1, providing stubs are available.

These stubs, it was explained, are the tiles that connect with the sewer main and extend to approximately the property line. These stubs were furnished as a part of the sewer job. In many instances the property owner is required to pay for the entire extension, from main to house. At Frankfort, like Mokena and New Lenox, requires the property owner to pay only for labor and material for the line extending from the stubs to the homes.

In cases where stubs are available the village will start billing the owners for sewer service on Dec. 1, the board decreed, whether the connections are made or not.

Where stubs are not available by Dec. 1 the time for making connections and the billing for service will be extended, the board agreed.

There are 366 prospective sewer connections. Property owners may obtain applications for permits to make sewer connections at the office of Village Clerk Walter Pfaff in the village hall.

People may lay the tile across their own property but connection with the stubs must be made by a licensed and bonded contractor. Connections must remain uncovered until they are inspected.

In response to inquiries Village Attorney Albert H. Krusemark stated that Victor Eisenbrandt, inspector for sewer connections, has the right to enter upon and in all premises in the performance of his duties in behalf of public health and safety. The upper courts have so ruled, it was explained.

Death Claims E. Hinspeter Of Frankfort

Funeral services were conducted Sunday, Oct. 9 for Eugene V. Hinspeter, 55 years old of Mokena in St. John's United Church of Christ with the Rev. Theo. Wimmer officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Mr. Hinspeter died suddenly Thursday morning Oct. 6 while working for the Township Highway department on Hamilton road in the village. Death was due to an apparent heart attack.

Born in Frankfort, November 5, 1904 he farmed in the area all of his life; moving to Mokena last year at the late residence at 155 Union street.

He was a member of St. John's church, Farm Bureau and Pure Milk Associations.

Surviving are his wife, Anna, nee Kuester; a daughter Mrs. George (Doris) Sangmeister Jr. of Mokena and a son Donald of Frankfort; two grandchildren and two sisters Mrs. J. Earl (Bernice) Jones and Mrs. Clifford (Lucille) Knudson both of Blue Island.

West End Funeral Home of Chicago Heights was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Frankfort Fines $530 Last Month

The Police Magistrate Herbert Folkers of Frankfort turned in $530 to the village representing fines collected in September. Most of these fines were imposed for traffic code violations.

Chief of Police Francis Simon reported last week that between Sept. 27 and Oct. 4 he had arrested 18 drivers for speeding and 20 for stop sign violations. Frankfort has radar.

Expect N. Lenox Sewer System To Be Finished In 2 Weeks

The New Lenox sanitary sewer project is expected to be completed within the next two weeks and the entire system, which includes the sewage treatment plant, should be in use by the first of the year, according to the engineers.

Normyle and Berg, an Iowa contracting firm, began work on the sewer system, in July. At the time the contract was awarded it contained a provision that the work would be done in 300 days. It is expected that it will be completed in a third of that time and Lawrence Woodman of the engineering firm of Baxter and Woodman who designed the system, commended the contractors on their work as well as the dispatch with which it has been carried out.

The New Lenox village board held two meetings last week, one on Wednesday and the other on Thursday. The Thursday meeting was given over to a full discussion of the financial aspects of the sewer program.

The village expects to get $61,000 from the federal government as a grant to meet a portion of the cost of the sewage treatment.

Since the original contracts were let numerous extensions have been made to the sewer system, including the shopping center on U.S. 30 at the west edge of town. The contractors also encountered more rock than was anticipated which added to the cost.

As of the meeting last Thursday night the village had $528,959.40 on hand to meet obligations of $523,146.51 but village Attorney William Penn pointed out there is more money available so it will be possible to complete the shopping center extension, and it was his opinion that when all the avenues of finance were explored there would be sufficient funds to finish several other extensions under consideration.

The village should be in a position to issue approximately $15,000 more in general obligation bonds if anticipated but such bonds, of course, could not be issued until the spring. The village can also issue another $14,000 in revenue bonds and that would be in the immediate future.

Other possibilities for obtaining funds would be the issuance of second lien revenue bonds, the interest of which is said to be exempt from federal tax.

The shopping center extension is costing approximately $20,000. There are requests for extensions on Maple Lane, (which would cost about $6,000); Gall Lane ($3,000) Joliet rd. between Cedar and Pine ($2,700); lift station and extensions to depot area ($5,670) which would bring another $17,300 to the cost, plus engineering fee. Whether these requests can be met at this time will depend upon finances, it was pointed out.

At the meeting Wednesday an agreement was reached with Vernon Mangum to extend the sewer to a 15-lot subdivision he is developing. Fourteen of the lots are on Wallace street and one on Haynes. Cost of the project is figured at $5,500. Mangum is to advance the money and the village is to repay him in five years and pay 6% interest. Seven of the lots are now improved.

The New Lenox ordinance covering house connections with the sewer mains calls for plastic seal or cast iron pipe with leaded joints. In response to an inquiry by a householder Mangum Berg, of the Normyle-Berg firm, said slip seal joints were not satisfactory and that in Wisconsin they were outlawed. He advised plastic seal pipe and with a six inch diameter rather than four.

Householders can apply now for connection permits. The connections may be made to the mains but the connections with the house cannot be completed until the treatment plant is ready to operate. The ditch next to the house must therefore be left open for inspection until the system is ready for operation.

Mokena To Have Fire Hydrants Flushed Monthly

Mokena water users were advised, Monday, by the village board that water service would be cut-off for a short period at about 6 p.m., Oct. 26.

The purpose of this will be to allow the Mokena Volunteer Fire Department to flush fire hydrants throughout the village. Because of the increased amount of iron and other foreign matter in the hydrant lines, the firemen will make the flushing program a monthly practice according to the announcement.

Bids Exceed Million Mark

The Tinley Park village board is expected to let contracts for its sanitary sewer system when it meets next Monday night. At its meeting this Monday the board opened three bids.

One, that of Elaine Saxton, of Mokena, was rejected because he failed to accompany it with a certified check or bid bond, as required. The other two were turned over to the legal and engineering departments for tabulation and report. The report is expected to be made next Monday night and it is possible the board will award a contract.

Apparent low bid was submitted by Boncar Construction Co., Chicago, in the sum of $1,034,837.50.

Since then there has been considerable talk in New Lenox on the subject and the proposal to bring in industry and thus help lighten the tax burden is reported to have gained in public favor.

The other bid under consideration is that of George Hardin, also of Chicago, in the sum of $1,038,279.

Saxton's bid was for $1,552,713.50. The low bid is said to be about $30,000 under the engineer's estimate for the job.

Twelve contractors each paid $25 for a set of plans and specifications to figure on the job but only three submitted bids.

Moderator of the presbytery of Chicago has designated Dr. Harry P. Lundell to conduct the dedication services. Dr. Lundell, pastor of the Village Presbyterian church of Northbrook, is the father of the pastor of the Palos Park church the Rev. Paul M. Lundell. Hare, formerly intern assistant to the pastor. William E. Cairnes, chairman of the building council, will receive the keys to the church from Charles Edward Stadel, the architect, and E. L. Bergstrom, the general contractor.

The new sanctuary, chapel, carillon, christian education rooms, music room, and offices are the third addition to what once was a small rural church erected in 1902. In 1931 and 1952, previous additions were erected and dedicated. The new building will afford a full program of worship, christian education, and community activities for the ever-expanding southwest suburban area.

The Dedication week includes a service dedicating the Memorial chapel on Sunday evening, Oct. 9; a silver tea by the Women's Association on Tuesday, Oct. 11; a dedication banquet on Wednesday, Oct. 12; dedication of the carillon and other memorials on Sunday, Oct. 16 at 9:30 and 11:00 a.m.; and an open-house for the community on the 16th, from 3:00 to 5:30 p.m.

Mokena-Frankfort Plan Bodies OK Jurisdictions

The plan commissions of Mokena and Frankfort have agreed upon the boundaries of their respective jurisdictions. Now it remains for the village boards of the two communities to give approval and indications are that it will be forthcoming.

Frankfort and Mokena joined in a land-use planning program for the area and inasmuch as there are points where the jurisdiction of each village would overlap, the plan commissions held a joint meeting to agree upon a division.

Under their subdivision ordinances each village has jurisdiction over developments within a mile and a half radius of their corporate limits.

The plan commissions have agreed that Frankfort's jurisdictional boundaries should extend north along U.S. 45 for a mile and a half from its limits; thence south along U.S. 45 to Hickory creek; thence west along Hickory creek to Wolf road and thence south. The remaining part of the area would fall within Mokena's jurisdiction.

Advise Farmers On Crop Corn

Carl M. Bormet, chairman of the Cook County ASC committee and Roy M. Smith, of the Will County committee, advises farmers to exercise caution in early cribbing of 1960 Crop Corn. To be eligible for a farm stored Ear Corn Loan, the corn must grade No. 3 or better or No. 4 on test weight only but otherwise grade No. 3 or better and must contain 21 percent or less moisture in a crib not in excess of 7 feet in width. If the crib exceeds 7 feet, the moisture maximum is 1 percent less for each foot or fraction of a foot the crib width exceeds 7 feet.

The chairman recommends farmers delay cribbing until they are certain their corn will meet eligibility requirements if they intend to apply for a farm storage loan.

Pool Group To Sell Calendars

Benjamin M. Borkon, architect of Joliet, was a special guest at the Swimming Pool Committee meeting last Thursday evening when they met in the home of Mrs. Irving Rudman, Frankfort. Mr. Borkon was one of the architects who designed the original plans of the community park. Taken under discussion were changes in landscaping in the park suggested by Burton Breidert, which was approved by the guest.

The new project the committee is working on states, Mrs. Rudman, president, is the sale of 1961 calendars; they will list the names of various organizations in the village, meeting date and time. They will be distributed to the organizations for sale the first part of November.

Proceeds from the sale will be used towards the purchase of trees for the park.

The next meeting of the SPC will be Thursday evening, Nov. 3 in the Rudman home.

Fire Prevention

This is Fire Prevention Week. We'd like to have you think about it for a few minutes.
And if you will, please remember this -- "fires are not accidents."

Records show an average of 600,000 fires and 6,000 fire fatalities each year in U.S. and Canadian homes, and, say authorities, the greater part of this death and destruction is avoidable.

Most home fires, statistics show, result from carelessness or ignorance. A cigarette is left smoldering in an overstuffed chair or davenport. A portable oil heater is refilled while burning. Electrical circuits are overloaded and overfused. Perhaps one puts off clearing that rubbish out of basement or attic and it becomes fuel for fire.

Smoking in bed... going to sleep in a chair while smoking... allowing children to play with matches. Such violations of safety rules often result in needless deaths.

Most families, the records show, are quite unprepared to act in a fire emergency. No one has given any thought to plan all possible escape routes from every room in the house. And the idea of holding a fire drill in the home from time to time to make sure children and adults can act quickly and without panic, is probably never considered.

There were approximately 2-million fires in the United States in 1959 and the resultant loss was $1,278,808,000. Largest loss is in dwellings -- $309-million; manufacturing and industrial property is second -- $263-million; stores amusement halls and theaters are third -- $119-million and barns and outbuildings that went up in smoke had a value of about $105-million.

Smoking and matches accounted for 150,000 fires in the U. S.; 121,000 were the result of defective overheated heating and cooking equipment and 117,000 were traceable to electrical systems. Lightning was blamed for 33,400 fires; children and matches were given as the cause in 31,400 cases; rubbish, ignition unknown, 57,900; flammable liquids, 53,500; open lights, flames, sparks, 52,500; chimneys, flues 41,700; incendiary, 21,000.

Every day in the United States fire kills 31 persons; destroys 1,525 homes; ravages 11 churches; hits 11 schools; damages four hospitals; destroys 97 barns; demolishes 149 stores and ruins 105 factories. Every 15 seconds fire breaks out somewhere in the U.S. or Canada.

Those whose job it is to endeavor to awaken people to the dangers of fire, emphasize that as long as fire and fire deaths are regarded as deplorable accidents, progress will be slow.

When people recognize that fires and fire deaths as the consequences of neglect and carelessness, the rules of fire safety will be learned and heeded.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

The druggists of America observed National Pharmacy week Oct. 2-8, and this department hopes they had a good one.

By and large druggists are nice people, with a highly developed sense of public service. They are ever ready to do anyone a favor. No one realizes how many times pharmacists are dragged from their slumbers or a restful evening at home to come down and open up in answer to the plea of some relative or friend of a stricken person.

The demands upon their time are endless and most any of them would qualify for a certificate of merit for performance above and beyond the call of business duty--if there were such certificates, of course.

There are many businesses and industries now that have personnel trained to administer first aid; Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, veterans groups, fraternal and civic organizations and the Red Cross have first aid teams today but shucks, druggists have been giving first aid to the ill and the injured before they had a name for it.

The druggist, however, is more than a dispenser of first aid or prescriptions. He is an oracle, he is a repository of secrets; he is a judge; he sees all, knows all and tells nothing.

"Look, doc, my throat is dry and my head aches..." "I've seen this advertised, but I don't know, it always seemed to me I could tell whether anyone was tinting their hair but it is really true one..." "Oh, that is what it is? Well then why don't I just get a bottle of straight aspirin..." "I'll be darned, they get that price and it's just Glauber Salts..." "The kid is running a temperature..." "What kind of vitamins do you think I should take?" "What do you suggest, a faster film, or do you think it's the light?" "My sinuses are killing me, does that stuff really work? You've tried..." "Oh well, give me some aspirin then and I'll try the hot water again..." "Sure there were some vines there..." "Three leaves? Yeah, I think so. All I know is that it itches and if you can fix up some kind of dope for it?" "Excuse me, I'm in a hurry..." "Double parked you know..." "I'd like ten 4 cent stamps and..." "For Pete's sake, doc, can you give me something for this tooth, it's going right thru the top of my head..." "I want something in perfume, not too heavy..." "I told her to go ahead and get a lawyer, if she wants a divorce I won't fight it but what do you think..." "The whole side of my head and my ear aches too..." "Don't misunderstand me, my mother-in-law is a fine person but..." "You can see how my hands are broken out. I've been trying everything..." "What should I do now?" "Well, I suppose any kind of tonic would do. What would you suggest? You see..." "Have you got some kind of pipe tobacco that REALLY won't bite my tongue..." "I have taken some bicarb but I thought maybe you could recommend..." "And the knife slipped..." "What kind of glue or cement will hold on cloth?" "I knew this medicine is supposed to take care of the pleurisy but tape me, will you? It feels better then..." "Fix me up, will you doc?...too much party..." "And the doctor said..."

Yes, the druggist is a busy man and an acknowledged authority on everything from hangnails to hangovers.

And the drug store itself is a club life saving station and cultural and information center--all rolled into one.

Your correspondent has a soft spot for drug stores and druggists. My first indoor job was behind the soda fountain in a drug store down in Missouri. And for many summers thereafter, thru high school and college, I continued to work in a drug store--full time in the summer and part time otherwise.

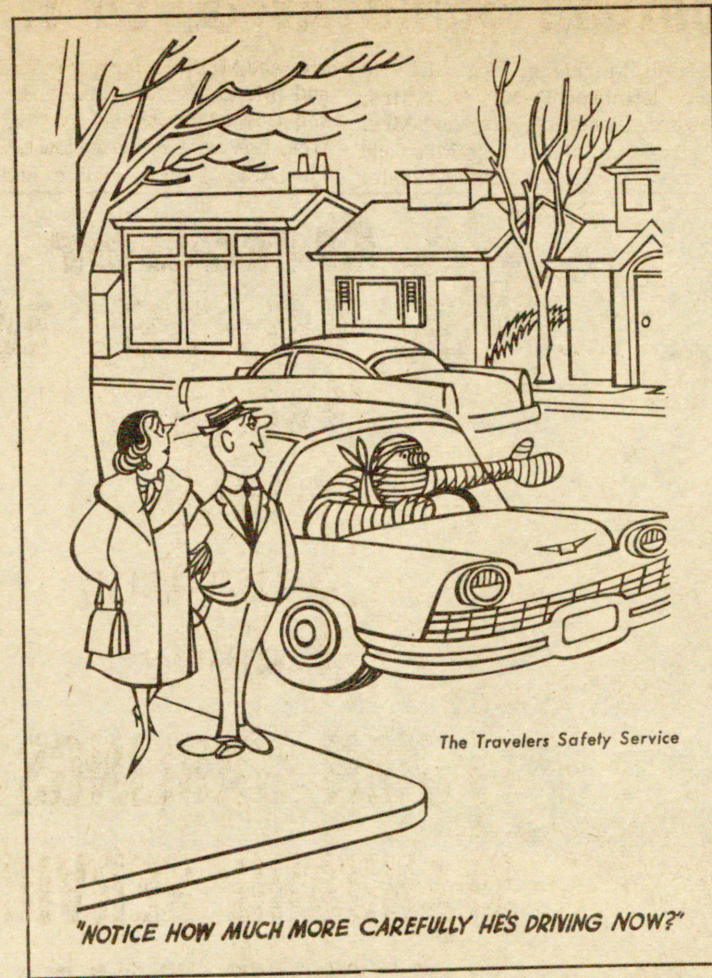

We worked alternate shifts--long day and short day. The long day began at 7 a.m. and ended sometime between midnight and 1 o'clock. The short day, which followed the long day, was a soft touch indeed.

One practically lolled in bed all day--or so it seemed when one came strolling into the store at 9 a.m. And one could leave promptly at 9 p.m. (oh well, almost promptly, not later than 9:30 anyway). My pay that first summer was $3 a week. It was a long way indeed from the lowly wage of a soda jerk to the princely stipend of a registered pharmacist which ranged from $20 to $25 depending upon his experience.

The hours may have been long and pay low but a drug store was a wonderful place in which to work. There one heard practically everything that was going on around town

Letters To The Editor

MORE ON TAX REVOLT
Dear Sir: The Lincoln-Way school administration has been dealt a devastating blow by the defeat of the bond referendum. Their deep disappointment has been further aggravated by "coaching from the sidelines" via Letters to the Editor and similar back-seat driving. The school faculty looks upon the referendum defeat as a personal judgement by the voters that Lincoln-Way's teachers do not deserve to be paid as much as teachers elsewhere.

The first obvious (and beneficial) result of all this provocation is the emergence in the newspapers and elsewhere of more concrete information about the school, its budget problems and its efforts to deal with them, than has ever been available to the voter heretofore.

If the school and its faculty will bear in mind that the referendum defeat represents primarily a "revolt" against taxation in general and the school referendum happened to come along at an inappropriate time, there should be less personal affront and emotional involvement. After all, our ancestral taxpayers did not object to tea at the Boston Tea Party but they chucked it all overboard just the same.

The tradition of public debate is basic to our free society even when it involves the shouting back and forth of somewhat exaggerated claims and counter-claims. Next month the entire nation goes to the polls and its collective decision undoubtedly will be influenced to a great extent by its views on cost-of-living and taxation. Hence, it is no disgrace to find the same considerations being applied to a local issue.

However this local issue happens to be a vital one -- the cost of education. We, as taxpayers, find ourselves either bludgeoned or solicited by churches, charitable organizations, hospitals, township, state and national authorities every day -- each of them either requesting or legally taking a chunk of our earned dollar. Those who are forced to ask for it rather than take it are at a disadvantage. They must enter the arena and fight for their fair share of the tax dollar. This is unfortunate but it is nonetheless true.

I yield to no one in my respect for educators and in my profound faith in the importance of education. Nonetheless I refuse to accept the proposition that all men must automatically feel as I do. In this connection, I should like to point out to the school faculty that the clergymen of all faiths submit to a less-than-average income for their lifetimes; that professional men in many fields suffer relative economic privation for several years while they pursue competency and excellence in their respective fields; that, in the long run, a man's salvation depends on his contribution to his fellow man and not on what he is paid to produce.

And there one also learned that discretion should rate high among the virtues and diplomacy is a necessity.

A druggist is a friend of man, despite the fact that he sees so much of him when the veneer is rubbed thin. All in all the druggist is a pretty good egg... a man to turn to in trouble... a man... but why go on.

I've sold myself that the druggist has a heart so big, so brimming with good will that I think I'll go down to the corner store and see if he'll let me take ten...

He certainly did. It's not often they can keep enough stamps on hand to let anyone have ten. Usually you have to get them out of a machine.

Our society unfortunately does not now, and probably never will, place as high a price on a teacher as it does on a professional athlete or entertainer. These are the facts of life which should be apparent, and without resentment, to any one interested in teaching. The teacher has a right to look for respect and compensation consistent with the times -- unfortunately for not much more.

So much for the school and its conscientious faculty who are not really the "villains" of this piece. The referendum defeats undoubtedly will serve a useful purpose in arousing the school authorities to "fight back." However, it should be pointed out that the public has defaulted in its sudden declaration of opposition to school financing. There are many ways in which the taxpayer can object to taxation without involving the relatively blameless and indispensable school system.

For example the citizens devoted to their school system could have, sometime ago, organized to investigate the admitted failure to collect all personal property taxes and the reluctance to encourage, unselfishly, local industrial development.

Each of the Lincoln-Way school district communities abounds with organizations. I would estimate that 80% of the adult population belongs to one or more of our church, fraternal or civic groups. Each organization goes its own way, dedicated to the good of its particular community, and apparently not overly concerned with this crisis of school financing which affects us all. These organizations, whose constitutions declare prominently a desire for "doing good," are composed in large measure of individuals who no longer have children in school. It is presumably they who defeated the tax referendum. As evidence I submit that the Lincoln Estates community alone voted in favor of the bond issue and this just happens to be the only community in the school district which has few families without children in school.

It is the mature citizens of each community who possess the crucial vote. They must be reminded that they still have a civic obligation, that not having children in school does not absolve them from responsibility for school matters. They should be cautioned to remember that their ultimate welfare, as well as the welfare of their graduated children, depends upon preservation and growth of truly American institutions -- and a major one is high grade and respected educational system.

It should be emphasized that a community or a school district, like an individual, is a whole being. When a man develops a heart weakness it affects his whole body and it is the poor doctor indeed who treats only the heart and forgets the man. Our schools are an integral part of our community. If the part fails, eventually so does the whole.

In conclusion, as we continue this necessary debate on a vital local issue, perhaps we might take note of a quotation from Buddha:

"As a solid rock is not shaken by a strong gale, so wise persons remain unaffected by praise or censure."
Let us all act as we know in our hearts we should.
"A Parent and Taxpayer"

Congressman William Bates of Massachusetts got a letter the other day from a constituent in Salem that expresses our feelings exactly.
"Please don't improve my lot any further," it said. "I can't afford it."

Business & Finance

BY MARUICE ANGLAND
The securities markets have been showing a trend to more optimism in the business picture. Action of the oils during past week seemed to confirm predictions of a few weeks ago that the pressing problem of over-production, had been brought under control.

It is reported that petroleum use in western Europe, went up 19 per cent in 1959 and the present business boom in that area, should show continued heavy use of oil. It is expected that increase in oil use in the U.S.A. will be above 4 per cent.

The large increased use of oil in western Europe is attributed to the fact that these countries are in a phase of mechanization of industry, thru which we passed long ago. The new common market countries now offer their industries a large mass market that they did not have prior to creation of what is popularly known as the European Common Market.

Students of oil production know that oil periodically is hit with temporary over-production which is often based on some event in world politics. Oil is so vital in industry that control of its production and distribution, would give a dictator really great power over industrialized nations.

Management of the large oil firms have had long experience in handling these problems.

With more optimistic outlook for the oils, we also note more optimism in general business.

The October issue of Business and Economic Review by Chicago's First National Bank expresses belief that the slow-down in various phases of industry, has probably stopped. They point out that employment, output of goods and services, personal savings, and investment as well as spending, are close to record levels.

Altho industry spending on new plant and equipment is less than anticipated, the survey states that total 1960 figures are likely to be 12 per cent in excess of 1959 figures.

The survey goes on to say that the levelling off capital expenditures during rest of the year, will lessen expansionary influences on

Hints For Homeowners

By: James Fizzell, Assistant Farm Advisor

Early fall is considered the best time to plant one of the most popular garden perennials, peonies. Most of these plants are familiar and are appreciated by almost everyone. They are one of the most showy and most easily grown of all garden flowers.

Most of peony varieties originated from two species, Paeonia albiflora and Paeonia chinensis. The species are almost never planted, but the centuries of crossing have resulted in the many varieties and types which so beautify our gardens in late spring.

Peony flowers are classified as to the amount of doubleness. Singles have five petals and a multitude of stamens. The transformation of these stamens into petal-like structures is what produces doubleness. Japanese types have two to three rows of petals and strap-like stamens. Fully double peonies are known as rose or bomb types. The American Peony Society lists other intermediate types, but the three general categories are usually enough for accurate classification.

Double peonies are sterile, and cannot be reproduced from seeds. The single and Japanese varieties are hybrids, and even though they may produce seeds, the resultant plants may be quite unlike their parents.

Peonies are almost always propagated by division of the large storage roots called tuber. The divisions should be made in September so that they can make new roots before winter. The tubers should be divided into sections containing three to five eyes. Plant the sections so that the top eye is about two inches below the surface of the soil. Too deep or too shallow planting is often the cause of failure to bloom. Large clumps cannot be moved. When it is necessary to move a plant it must be divided and the small pieces planted.

Peonies will not bloom the year following division. If a bud is formed, it should be picked off. The third year after planting, satisfactory blooming should begin.

Peonies make large plants so allow plenty of room for them to expand.

Once established they do not like to be disturbed. Few diseases or insects attack peonies. Ants, often prolific on peonies, cause much undue concern. They do not hurt the plants, but remove the sweet material secreted by the buds.

50 Attend Housewarming For Vernon Bormet Family

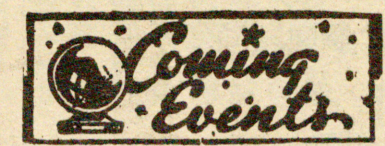

MRS. MARGARET SEMMLER
Tel. 5561

A surprise housewarming was held recently for Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bormet and family in their new home on Wolf road. It will be recalled that they lost their home and contents about a year ago by fire. A new brick home has been built where their former home was located, and the family is now happily settled and very grateful to all who helped them in every way. While the house was being built, the family lived across the street in the home of Paul Rinke, who lives alone.

There were 50 friends and neighbors who surprised them at the house warming coming from Mokena, Orland Park, Matteson, and Mrs. Bormet's fellow workers from Tinley Park who are in the employ of Al. C. Brandau, excavating and trucking company.

The evening was enjoyed by a treasure hunt, followed by refreshments, brought by the friends. The latter surprised the Bormets with a gift of seven piece kitchen set.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Koerner are the parents of a baby girl born Saturday, Oct. 1 in Silver Cross hospital. The baby weighed seven pounds, four ounces and has been

Homecoming Some Places-- At Enfield It's Mule Day

BY JOHN W. ALLEN
SO, ILL. UNIV.
Apparently there have always been some kind of homecomings -- at least from the time of Christ, for he was born during such an event.

In just about every region of America, old settlers' reunions and old soldiers' reunions were events looked forward to for months. With the passing of the soldiers' reunions, other special days have come to be observed in many localities.

Only a few weeks ago Ridgway had its Popcorn Day, with thousands of bushels of popped and popped corn. Nearby New Haven has its annual Pecan Day, with loads of nuts. Likewise Murphysboro has its Apple Festival, along with an attractive display of peaches of the human variety, and then Cobden has its annual days to parade its peaches from blooms to fruit. Enfield (in White county) has its special day, somewhat different from the others. It has a Mule Day, the first Saturday in October.

This year, at least early in the day, it appeared that the day might be observed without the product for which it is named. It was not long, however, until a lone chunky black mule, old enough to be very calm, was found behind the lumber yard, harnessed to a high-wheeled road cart with a shiny red foottrack. It was the kind that was common before we had good roads.

Shortly afterwards, a span of toy-like mules whose combined weight was only 750 pounds was found hitched to a spring wagon. The combined weight of these pint-sized mules was about half that of a good farm mule when mules were the motive power used by many farmers.

When the mile-long parade got underway in the afternoon, a span of husky mules appeared in the procession, drawing a high wheeled, narrow tired farm wagon with a hayrack and spring seat. The passengers looked like farmers who came to town in much the same way on Saturday afternoons 50 and more years ago.

An earlier parade had been held in the forenoon. It was made up of pets, accompanied by children who walked or rode bicycles. The kittens were carried and the pups mostly came along as reluctant and bewildered participants at the end of the leashes.

The main parade of the afternoon was a varied spectacle. It had about a score of marching school bands, each preceded by a cluster of fancy stepping, baton twirling drum majorettes. There were many floats designed to show aspects of the community's past. Especially interesting were those that portrayed the fashions in women's clothing. They showed the dress worn by women since the days of Pilgrim garb thru homespun, hoop-skirt, hobble skirts, the sack, the flapper's garb, shirtwaists with mutton ham sleeves, and hats in strange array.

In its earlier years -- this annual day has been observed in Enfield 39 times -- many awards were given for prize mules in various classifications. One old program listed a dozen awards. This year only one was offered, being for the best sucking mule -- but none were found. According to the present trend, the time may come when Enfield will have to hold Mule Day without a single mule. But, mules live a long time. This is indicated by the old folk saying -- "Who ever saw a dead mule?" There were few in Enfield with whom I could "reunion", but it was enjoyable, nevertheless, to see the greetings of old friends who had returned for the special day. It was pleasing to hear people say, "Well, I ain't seen you in more'n 20 years," and then set out to bring the history of the past two decades up to date.

There was the display of oldtime patchwork quilts with their assorted patterns and fine hand stitching that seems to be returning as ornamental bedspreads for those lucky enough to find them.

A day spent at Enfield on Mule Day makes one wonder why many other places do not find some excuse to set aside a day of "return of the natives."

Rules Unofficial Police Groups Have No Powers

(CNS) Unofficial police groups "can't act as policemen," according to Elroy C. Sandquist Jr., assistant state's attorney in charge of the civil division.

"That power can only be obtained by deputization," he added, "by the sheriff or the coroner."

Sandquist said his office is preparing an opinion on the legality of such organizations at the request of Sheriff Frank G. Sain.

Sain's request referred to complaints of Stickney Twp. residents who questioned the right of the South Suburban Traffic Police Assn. to use the word "police" in the title and to wear police style uniforms.

The association was chartered by the secretary of state's office last Feb. 15 as a not-for-profit organization. Its charter states that the purpose of the association is "to perform civic duties and in the furtherance of said purpose to furnish volunteer traffic police service only upon request of towns, villages, cities, and unincorporated areas."

Members of the association wear dark blue police style uniforms and badges, and have been observed directing traffic in front of schools, and churches, presumably at the request of these groups.

KNIGHTS TIE AND EAGLES LOSE

L-W, Spartans End Up In 6 To 6 Draw

This was to have been the game of the week in the Southwest Suburban conference. Predictions had it that the winner of this game would have the inside track to the conference crown.

No such decision emerged, however. After 48 minutes of battle, both Oak Lawn and Lincoln-Way had six points, which frustrated all critics. Again and again both teams threatened, but each eleven scored only once.

It was Lincoln-Way who cracked the scoreboard first. With 3:46 remaining in the first quarter, Dan Fenn drove across the goal from the Oak Lawn two. Dan's run climaxed a 70-yard march sparked by Skip Kruzich's 18-yard run. For the extra point, Lincoln-Way elected to call on Fenn's services again with an end run. The play was just short, making it L-W 6, Oak Lawn 0.

The lead was somewhat short-lived. With 6:38 remaining in the second quarter, Spartan quarterback Tom Byrnes sneaked over the goal from less than a foot away to tie the score 6-6. Jim Aldridge attempted to kick the conversion, but it was wide to the right. The Spartans, thru the aid of apenalty, were given a second chance for the point from the one yard line, but it also failed as a run.

Also this ended scoring for the afternoon, it was far from the end of the excitement. On several occasions each team threatened to break the balance.

Late in the second quarter, for example, the Knights noted that Oak Lawn was in an obvious pass defense. Sensing opportunity for an end run, Skip Kruzich handed the ball to Dan Fenn on a reverse around right end, Fenn received excellent blocking, and barely missed going all the way.

Then in the third quarter, Oak Lawn got together a march which seemed destined to go all the way. Moving the ball from their own 38 to the Lincoln-Way 12, it looked as if a scoring blow was inevitable. But the Knights held, took the ball over on downs, and averted serious trouble.

A short while later, Lincoln-Way got together a fine drive, but their efforts were also thwarted by the downs marker at the Oak Lawn 29.

With time running out in the final period, Oak Lawn once again drove toward the goal. With less than two minutes remaining, the Spartans passed their way to a first down at the Knight 24. Fortunately, however, the threat fizzled on three incomplete passes.

With 5-seconds remaining on the clock, Lincoln-Way took over. Thru the aid of careful running and use of time-outs, the Knights were able to run six more plays. Tho the Knights gained 47 yards during this short period, they fell 30 yards short.

Also a tie is somewhat disappointing, it didn't really harm either team's chances a great deal. Both the Knights and the Spartans, now tied for first place, must still face the Sandburg Eagles, who are presently third. It will be these contests with Sandburg, therefore which will most probably determine the SWS race.

Statistically, Lincoln-Way held the edge. The Knights gained 224 yards rushing compared to 159 for Oak Lawn, and most other statistics also leaned toward the visitors.

This week, Lincoln-Way will celebrate homecoming. As opposition, the Knights will clash with their near neighbors to the north, the Sandburg Eagles. This game is expected to determine the fates of both teams. If Sandburg wins they will probably go on to cop the SWS crown this year. If the Knights win, on the other hand, they could go all the way. They are, after all, still undefeated, and have played the "meat" of their schedule for this season.

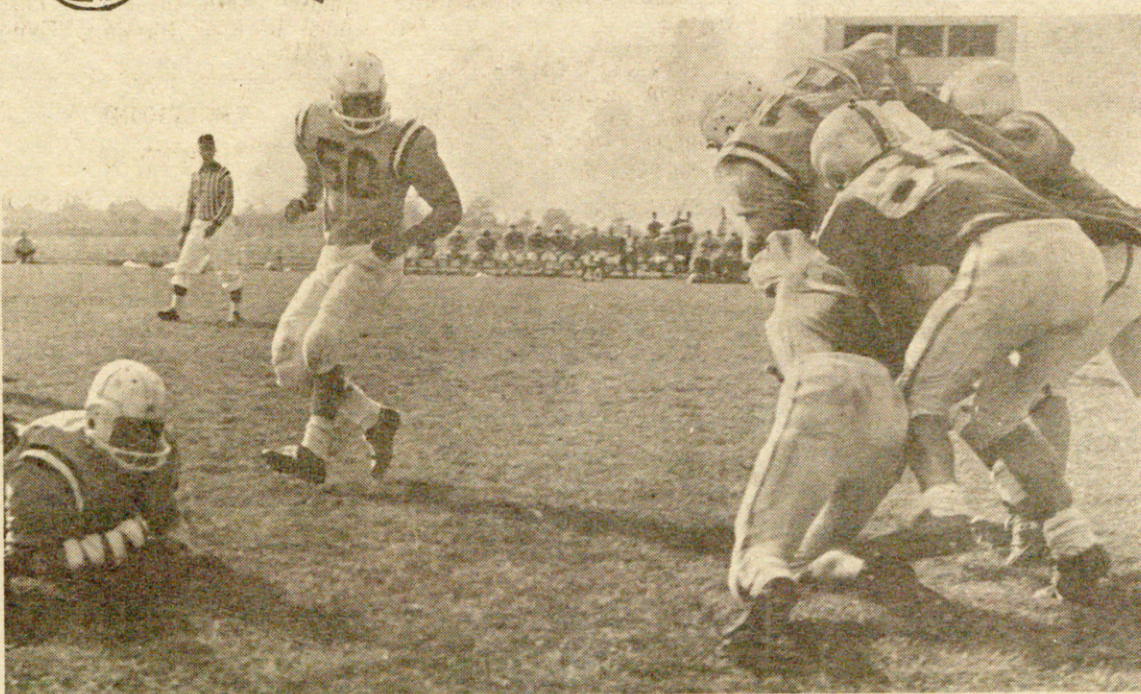

The varsity game will take place Saturday afternoon at 2:00, with the Fresh-Soph tilt beginning at noon.

Knights 6 0 0 0 -- 6
Oak Lawn 0 6 0 0 -- 6

Mustang's Safety Beats Sandburg 8-7

It was one of those days for Sandburg's varsity gridders--a couple of bobbles, some penalties that hurt and not enough points so the Eagles were nosed out 8 to 7 by the Evergreen Park Mustangs in a Southwest Suburban conference game at Orland Park last Saturday.

The Eagles have two games in the win column and one lost and if they can take Lincoln-Way this Saturday and beat Oak Lawn they still have an excellent chance to cop this league title.

The game this Saturday--it will be homecoming for Lincoln-Way--is easily the top attraction on the SWS football card and should attract a big crowd.

Saturday's loss was an upset, according to observers, Evergreen Park had lost its two previous starts and Sandburg was picked as the favorite.

Joe Devine, the Sandburg coach, had no excuses.

"Evergreen Park played a good game," Devine summed it up, "and we didn't."

Early in the first quarter the Mustangs found they couldn't gain and were forced to punt. The ball came down where a Sandburg player was standing on the three-yard line. He elected to field it but the ball took a twist, as footballs often do, and instead of settling snugly in his arms went slithering off his shoulder pad and into the end zone.

The ball could have been grounded there but an Eagle chose to try and run it out. That was the moment a swarm of Mustangs hit him, scoring a safety and two points for the visitors.

Sandburg kicked off from the 20 but after a couple of tries the Mustangs punted. Sandburg tried to get rolling but failed and had to kick. The punt was blocked, by one of Eagles who accidentally backpedaled in front of the ball. The visitors recovered on the Sandburg five and in four plays went over for a touchdown and the score was Evergreen Park 8, Sandburg 0.

In the second quarter Jim Jeffries shook loose and scampered 40 yards for a counter. The Eagles made the extra point and the score was 8 to 7, Mustangs.

For the remainder of the half and the third quarter neither team was able to push near pay dirt. Sandburg started several marches but penalties stopped them on several occasions and the Eagles forced to kick.

Late in the final period the Sandburgs began plowing down the field, rolling up the down. They looked good and their fans were looking forward to celebrating another victory.

The Eagles moved the ball down to the Mustang's one-yard line. It was fourth down. On the next play an Eagle slammed thru for a touchdown. The delirious fans suddenly quieted and looked in shocked disbelief at the waving arms of the referee signalling the Sandburg backfield had been in motion and the touchdown not allowed.

CRASH LANDING by a Mustang stopped the flight of an Eagle. It looks tho that if this fellow hadn't gotten him from behind that chap coming in at the right of the picture would have. Sandburg would have appreciated having a man loose at that time in the third quarter.

The 1961 POLARA is Dodge's entry in the low-medium-price car market. The appointments, fabrics and design would indicate that the manufacturer expects to attract attention from motorists who have previously bought more expensive cars. Above is the stylish 4-door hardtop. The Polara is now on display at Mainline Motors in Downers Grove.

L-W Chorus Begin Practice On Operetta

The music department of Lincoln-Way High School, under the direction of music instructor Tom Olson, will present a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Ruddigore" Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 4 and 5.

The students to portray the principal roles were chosen by the director shortly after school began and have been busy rehearsing for the performance. Bob Breidert will play the part of Sir Ruthvin Murgatroyd, baritone lead; Carol Spector will be seen as Rose Maybud, soprano lead; others taking part include, Lorna Miller, Dame Hannah; Gail Gregory, Mad Margaret; Karin Geuther, Zorah; Sue Blomquist, Ruth; Larry Lubway, Richard Dauntless; Gordon Case, Sir Despard Murgatroyd; Richard Osmus, Old Adam Goodheart; and Jim Stanek, Sir Roderick Murgatroyd. Gene Cline, Gayle Harling and Sue Ann Shoop will be accompanying the operetta.

This is the first performance of the year and the students are working hard to make it a success.

Industry is pleased by Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller's outspoken support for tax rate reform legislation.

An intensive effort is under way to obtain enactment of this type of legislation by the next session of Congress.

Advocates contend that enactment of tax rate reform legislation would remove serious blocks to business expansion—which is essential to provide jobs and products to meet future needs.

Here is how Secretary Mueller views the situation, as expressed in an address to the board of directors of the National Association of Manufacturers.

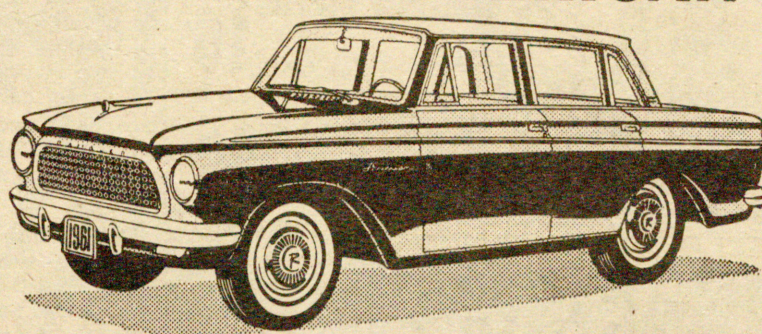

"One of the best encouragements to growth would be a drastic tax revision that would sharpen incentives, widen the flow of savings and remove barriers to investment.

"The way to increase business activity and to make jobs is to save, invest and expand."

Industry believes that passage of the Herlong-Baker tax rate reform bill, which was pending in the last session of Congress, is the best means of accomplishing the result sought by the Commerce Secretary.

"After the first ballot at a convention, many of the folks back home think their delegates should be committed." —Bert Kruse.

Society Advises Regular Eye Examination For Kids

Are you certain that your child's vision is equal to the demands of schoolwork? Have his eyes been examined within the last year?

Children who receive professional eye examinations at regular intervals have the important advantage of early correction and treatment of any existing eye problems.

Parents may very possibly not realize that the usual general physical examination does not include a complete eye check-up such as only a specialist can give. They may not be aware of the fact that a child cannot tell when he does not see well. But remember, he does not know how others see, and so cannot compare.

Perhaps your children's eyes were examined four or five years ago and were all right at that time. Have you thought that this may have changed? The eyes, like other parts of the body, are affected by the growth process. They may change within as short a period as six months. For this reason, the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness recommends an annual eye examination; and suggests that it is not too soon to make arrangements for an appointment during Christmas vacation - or sooner if the doctor has an opening.

If your child needs glasses, be glad that wearing them will make his blurred world a clearer - even safer place in which to live and learn. If you find that glasses or other corrective treatment are not required, be happy for the doctor's assurance that your child won't miss the learning and pleasure that come through the gift of sight.

Good vision occurs in a healthy body. Parents can further help their children to develop and safeguard eyesight by practicing and encouraging sound health habits, including balanced nutrition, cleanliness, rest and exercise.
